Section-A

1. Read the following passage and answer the questions set below it :

A family went for a picnic behind the hills. They packed their food and water bottles, and walked to the place. When they reached the spot, mother unpacked their picnic basket and found that she had forgotten to bring salt. Food without salt is tasteless. So after a lengthy discussion, Peter, being the youngest of the group, was chosen to fetch the salt from home.

Although Peter was fit and could make the trip back home without much difficulty, he whined and cried. Finally, he agreed to go on one condition that no one would eat anything until he returned. The family consented and the little boy left.

Three hours passed and Peter had not returned. One.....two hours.....then, in the third hour of his absence, grandfather could no longer contain his hunger. He began to unwrap a dish. At that point, Peter popped out from behind a tree shouting, "See I knew you wouldn't wait. Now I'm not going to go and get the salt."

(A) With reference to the passage, do as directed : 2

2. Read the following passage and complete the tree diagram given below :

The word literature is really hard to define. Some opine that literature is the mirror of life; others say that it is the criticism of life. Whatever may be the controversy about the word, we may say that literature is that which reflects life.

The five categories of literature that students should be familiar with are Poetry, Drama, Prose, Nonfiction, and Media. Poetry is of two kinds, imaginative and realistic. Drama is either a comedy or a tragedy. Some of the widely read books of Shakespearean comedy are "As You Like It" and "The Comedy of Errors'. Hamlet, Macbeth and Othello are tragedies that have captured the hearts of millions.

Prose can be divided into novels and short stories. Novels are also of many kinds—such as historical, psychological, scientific, etc. Nonfiction literature refers to a variety of texts that strive to depict information that is 100 percent factually accurate. The newest type of literature is media. It includes the many important kinds of texts such as websites and commercials.

3. Read the following passage and answer the questions set below it :

There is always a debate on whether children should lend a hand around the house or not. Those who support the idea of children doing chores say that it teaches them a great deal. Others say they should not be made to do work as childhood is short and should be full of fun.

Parents may be reluctant to make their children do chores; after all, children are so busy with all their school work that they don't want to add to the pressures. Doing chores may not be an enjoyable activity, but chores have to be divided amongst all the household members. Instead of arguing over responsibilities or leaving it all to one person, how about doing chores together as a family ?

Turning chores into a family activity will help children nurture familial relationships. It makes children more confident and independent. It will help them learn how to be responsible in later life. Children who do chores become conscious of the mess they leave around, and will willingly do the work involved.

(A) With reference to the passage, do as directed. Write only the answer : 2
